Storyboard Stage 1

Audience
My website is directed towards anyone who is interested in gardening and wants to find out more information about the particular growing season and specific plants grown during that time.

Content
This website will have information about basic gardening and how to care for plants during that season, which will probably be a reminder to my general audience. Then it will break up into specific growing seasons leading to what type of plants can be grown in each season. It will also give several examples and pictures of plants that are grown during that season and the basic information on how to care for that plant during the other seasons and when you should plant it etc.

Design
The design will be straightforward since it is a how to garden website. I want it to be simple so that it does not look cluttered or confusing to the user. There will also be step by step rules on how to care for specific plants so I want to make the website is very user friendly.

Color, Graphics and Text
I will be using the same background and border for each slide. I want to try and incorporate as many earthy elements as I can. The colors will be neutral with lots of greens and browns.

The text will be very basic so that it is easy to read since there will be how to steps. For the font color I want to use a dark color so that it will stand out (dark purple).

The pictures will be prepared in Photoshop so that they will not look distorted. I also want to create a personal graphic so that it customizes my website.

Technologies
I will be using notepad for my html codes, Photoshop for the pictures and for the custom graphic.

Interaction/Communication Formats
Each page will have the tool bar on top so that the user will not be confused and can find what they are looking for. At the bottom of each page I will have my contact information and (maybe a link to other helpful websites).
